Georgian architecture is the name given in most English-speaking countries to the set of architectural styles current between 1714 and 1830. It is named after the first four British monarchs of the House of Hanover—George I, George II, George III, and George IV—who reigned in continuous succession from August 1714 to June 1830. The so-called great Georgian cities of the British Isles were ...

Poems and Books Read During the Regency While Byron is a Regency hero, other great works of literature were available for the upper class to read such as that of Donne, Burns, and Blake. Poetry was a respectable profession, and long poems such as Prisoner of Chillon , Rime of the Ancient Mariner, and The Lady of the Lake were popular.
