"Hampl (English/Univ. of Minnesota; Blue Arabesque: A Search for the Sublime, 2006, etc.) has crafted an honest and loving tribute to her parents, who raised her in St. Paul, Minn., where she has remained virtually her entire life. Her father (the eponymous florist) and mother (a librarian) had different cultural histories.

The Florist's Daughter - Patricia Hampl

During the long farewell of her mother's dying, Patricia Hampl revisits her Midwestern girlhood. Daughter of a debonair Czech father, whose floral work gave him entr\u00e9 into St. Paul society, and a distrustful Irishwoman with an uncanny ability to tell a tale, Hampl remained, primarily and passionately, a daughter well into adulthood.

"Patricia Hampl writes the best memoirs of any writer in the English language. The Florist's Daughter is her third memoir and her best by far--her first two were fabulous but she gets better with each book. But here is what I love about Patricia Hampl: Sentence for sentence she writes the best prose of any American writer, period.

THE FLORIST'S DAUGHTER - Reading Group Choices

A dutiful daughter--and superb memoirist--reflects upon the deaths of her parents. Hampl (English/Univ. of Minnesota; Blue Arabesque: A Search for the Sublime, 2006, etc.) has crafted an honest and loving tribute to her parents, who raised her in St. Paul, Minn., where she has remained virtually her entire life. Her father (the eponymous florist) and mother (a librarian) had different cultural histories.

THE FLORIST'S DAUGHTER by Patricia Hampl | Kirkus Reviews

"If Patricia Hampl had written memoirs chronicling her days in New York or Los Angeles, her name would be on every American reader's lips... Hampl's prose is delightfully fluid, artful without being arty, ever attuned to ambiguity. She is, unquestionably, one of the finest stylists we have."

- Patricia Hampl

Patricia Hampl was born in St. Paul, Minnesota, to Stanley and Mary Hampl. She attended the University of Minnesota, where she earned her Bachelor of Arts in 1968. Hampl earned her Master of Fine Arts at the University of Iowa in 1970. Hampl worked as an editor of Minnesota Monthly from 1973 to 1975 and as a freelance writer and editor from 1975 to 1979.

Patricia Hampl - Wikipedia

Patricia Hampl's memoir is a paean to post World War II St. Paul and her parents with whom she lived there, Mary and Paul. The florist, Stan, is Czech, enamored of conventional beauty and a pleaser. Mary, who works in a library, is Irish and interested in keeping track of people, often rather judgmentally.
